ROOFING SLATE!

TWIN CITY SLATE MINING AND MAUFACTURING COMPANY.

J. S. NEWMYER, President. S. H. ANDERSON, Secretary. J. N. SHALLENBERGER, Superintendent.

OFFICE,

No. 43 Seventh Street, Pittsburg, Pa.

It is believed that the time has come in the progress of American architecture, when the question will no longer be asked, "What shall we use for roofing?" but, "WHERE CAN WE OBTAIN THE BEST SLATE."—Older countries have long since established the fact, that no material is so well adapted, and so durable, as Slate for covering buildings. Two obstacles to its general use in this country have existed heretofore: first, the transition character of society, which is necessarily opposed to permanence in architecture and second, the great abundance and low price of lumber. The first impediment is rapidly yielding to time and riper ideas on the subject of building, and the other must soon give away to the scarcity and advancing price of lumber suitable for roofing purposes.

We submit a few leading advantages of a Slate roof?

It is superior to every other in appearance.
It is easily put on.
It saves insurance.
It is fire proof.
It is imperishable.

The Twin City Slate Company's Mines are in Northampton County, Penn'a. The Slate is a beautiful dark blue, unchangeable in color, splits in perfectly smooth plates of any size required, and hardens steadily by exposure to the atmosphere. No Slate in the United States is superior to it, in all the qualities essential to a good roof, and we think but little equal to it. It is furnished at the yard in Pittsburgh, at the rate of $12.00 a square (one hundred square feet), which with expense of laying, will add about 25 per cent. to the cost of a shingle roof at present prices.

Samples of Slate may be seen, and orders left at the office of A. T. Shallenberger & Co., Rochester, Pa.

Parties at a distance, can address J. S. Newmyer, No. 43 Seventh street, Pittsburgh, Pa. mar1'868:6m.

EDUCATIONAL COLUMN.

G. L. EBERHART, Editor.

BEAVER, May 6, 1868.

[ALL COMMUNICATIONS FOR THIS DEPARTMENT OF THE PAPER, MUST BE ADDRESSED TO G. L. EBERHART, NEW BRIGHTON, PA.]

Geography.

A few weeks since we gave a cursory outline of Guyot's System of Geography—a new system, introduced to the public within a year, through the publishing house of Messrs. Chas. Scribner & Co., New York. This system, on account of its novelty, its intrinsic superiority over any which has preceded it, the very natural and truly philosophical principles upon which it is based, is creating a revolution in the school world that can not fail to result in the complete overthrow of the old, dry, tedious, memoriter system of teaching geography which now so generally prevails in our schools.

This new system embraces five text-books, viz: Geographical Teaching, which is intended only for teachers; Guyot's Introduction to the Study of Geography, Elementary Geography, Intermediate Geography, and Common School Geography.

The Intermediate was the last of the series published. We have examined it with some care, and we are prepared to pronounce it the best book of the same grade we have seen.

In this work we find the same general plan as that embraced in the other works of the same series. In the study of geography, as in all other branches of learning, success depends upon presenting the subject in its various stages in a natural order. The acquisition of knowledge cannot be successfully and efficiently conducted on the cramming, forcing hot house system, so generally resorted to in this fast age of steam. True education consists in a gradual expansion and development of the mental faculties—in drawing out and strengthening the faculties of the mind in their natural order. That gradual and natural development has three stages. The first consists in a general outside or surface view of the objects to be studied; we then study all their parts, and lastly from our ability to analyze the objects studied we arrive at a knowledge of the laws and principles which regulate and pervade the whole; from which we are enabled to derive a clear understanding of the organization of all these parts, their mutual dependence, [illegible] by their acting together [illegible]—produce certain results. [illegible] powers of the mind which are called into activity are not the same. The simple power of perception through the senses predominates in the first; the analytic understanding in the second; the power of generalization in the third. This successive predominance being precisely the same which obtains in the successive phases of development of the mind during the period of education, in its beginning, middle and end, the mode of presenting the subject must be considerably modified at each of these steps in accordance with those invariable psychological laws.

The various geographical topics must also be presented, in each grade in such an order as will enable the pupil to grasp them intelligently, in their natural order. Here, says Prof. Guyot, the order of natural dependence is the rule to be followed; the forms of contour and relief, without which the drainage of a country cannot be understood, before the study of the river systems; the climate before the distribution of plants and animals; the geography of nature before the geography of man, ethnographical, political and statistical, which is regulated by the former. Thus each order of facts becomes a stepping-stone for the intelligent study of the rest.

To disregard either of these great principles is to insure certain failure. For then bare memory, unintelligent and therefore not retentive, is the sole dependence of the pupil.

The system of map-drawing taught by Guyot, is the most complete we have—in fact the only complete system published in this country.

This is given fully in the "Intermediate," and is the most important feature of the work.

With a sincere desire to promote the cause of common school education in this county, we recommend every teacher, school director, every individual interested in the cause of education to examine Guyot's Geographical Series.

We know of no one way in which we can do more to advance the interests of our schools, and to raise the qualifications of our teachers in this one branch, than by urging them to secure and study thoroughly Guyot's Geographical Teaching.

Solutions of Problems.

No. 4, of Jan. 22d.

A body falling vertically in a vacuum passes through 16 and one-twelfth feet the first second after leaving its place, 48 and one-fourth feet the next second, [illegible] five-twelfths the third second, and so on, spaces forming an arithmetical progression of which the common difference is 32 [illegible] sixth feet, or double the space passed through the first second. This number is called the measure of the force of gravity. From this known law, then, it is evident that a body to acquire a velocity of 3040 feet per second must fall as many seconds as 32 and one-sixth feet are contained times in 3040, equal to [illegible] 98-193 seconds.

Threshing question, of April 8th.

According to the conditions of the question, the threshing of 36½ bushels of wheat and 38½ bushels of oats—in all 75 bushels of grain—cost $7¼, the oats costing 2½ cents per bushel more than the wheat; to find the average cost per bushel, and one's share of the cost of the whole, divide $7¼ less 96¼ cents—which is the extra cost of threshing 38½ bushels of oats at 2½ cents per bushel—by 75, the whole number of bushels of grain threshed, which gives the quotient 8 23-60. This quotient multiplied by 36½ gives the cost of the wheat; multiply it by 38½ and to the product add 96¼, and we have the cost of the oats.

Therefore A's share for threshing 36½ bushels of wheat and 19¼ of oats was (leaving out fractions of cents) $5,18; and B's share for threshing 19 bushels of oats was $2,07.

Matrimonial Catechism.

Charivari has prepared a certain catechism for the use of persons desirous of taking the degree of baccalaureate in matrimony. The examination is conducted as follows: The future bridegroom is first questioned seperately—

Examiner: "I am about to interrogate you on your special aptitude for marriage. You appear already arrived at a certain age?"

The bridegroom elect: "I am forty-eight years old."

"And the fiancee?"

"She is seventeen."

"Thirty years difference. Well, that is not in the programme. It is your look out. Why are you going to marry?"

"Monsieur, I do not well know myself. But I am alone, a bachelor. I am rather bored. My position obliges me to maintain a certain rank in the world. I must keep house. In short, one must wind up and settle down at some time.

"The future is in the hands of none. If you leave children you expose them to the chance of becoming orphans before they are fairly launched in their careers."

"Ay yes—the children. But I am in hopes not to have many."

"Do you love your wife; are you beloved by her?"

"She is a young person very well brought up, and belonging to an excellent family. Her dot is most advantageous, and she has, moreover, expectations. There is nothing to prevent my being very happy with her. I myself am in a good business."

"I see that you unite all the aptitude desirable for your new condition. I accord you the conjugal diploma, with the privilege thereto attached."

Examination of the bride elect: "You come mademoiselle, as an aspirant for the baccalaureate of marriage?"

Bride elect: "Yes sir."

"You feel yourself possessed of the qualities necessary in a wife and mother of a family?"

"Yes, sir."

"I congratulate you. What in former times was a duty has to day become an evidence of heroism. Then you have the courage to bring up your children?"

"Yes, sir; my mother has told me that if I have any she will find me an excellent nurse from Normandy."

"Ah, very good! You will then have a little more leisure to attend to the affairs of [illegible] not understand housekeeping, but my mother will choose for me a good cook and a femme de chambre."

"That is a question of expense merely: I do not insist upon it. But when your children are old enough to be educated?"

"If it is a boy, he will be put to school; if girl, she will enter a pension."

"Without any doubt you have more affection for your husband!"

"I know nothing about it yet, but my father assures me that I shall love him very much. Besides I shall have nothing else to do."

"And why are you going to marry?"

"Because I am not married."

"That is one reason. Have you any others?"

"Pardon, monsieur, I am very anxious to be married, in order to have a reception day, to see my friends, to go out alone, to go to the theatre and to balls.

"It is not necessary to be married to go to the theatre and to balls."

"I cannot always go when I want to, and at the theatre there are often pieces that my parents will not allow me to see."

"But with these ideas I do not see how you can be either a good housekeeper or a mother of a faimily."

"Of course I cannot pass all my youth in bringing up children and filling the cupboard with linen, while my husband is at his business or his club. I must try to amuse myself a little."

"Well, I have just been talking with your future husband, and I find that you two have absolutely the same idea. I am delighted with such evidence of congeniality. Here is your diploma. You are evidently a young person, much too reasonable to annoy your family by making a marriage disinclinatory."

ASSESSMENT.—We hear a universal complaint of the high assessment of the property in this city. In some of the wards the assessments on real estate have been nearly doubled. We advise the property holders to attend the appeal before the county commissioners to be held next month and have the matter thoroughly examined. We understand that some of the assessors were very careful not to raise the value of their own property, whilst that within a square distant belonging to Republicans was actually doubled.—Har. Tel.

AN interesting and very pertinent question just at this time is: What will become of the "Johnson journals" when Johnson is deposed? What will the New York Times, the New York Journal of Commerce, and a variety of journals of that ilk find to advocate when they no longer have Andy to laud to the skies? Thurlow Weed being an old and inveterate rascal will probably be little troubled but if we did not consider it wrong we should advise Henry J. Raymond, who has so early in life hung all his hopes on so rotten a thing, to commit suicide.

THE Louisville Journal makes the interment of John Morgan's remains at Lexington, Ky., the occasion for a glowing eulogy of that rebel chieftain. The Journal used to call John Morgan a traitor, an outlaw, a horse thief and all sorts of hard names. That paper is doing all in its power to make amends to its rebel readers for the abuse it heaped upon them while they were absent from the State fighting the battles of Jeff. Davis, and for its stimulated loyalty under the wholesale pressure of circumstances, when the boys in blue had something to say about matters in the State of the Confederate Cross Roads.

CUT THIS OUT.—For a long time hydrophobia was thought to be incurable, and persons affected with it were either strangled or smothered to death. But a German forrester, dying a few years ago, made known a life secret by which may serve a good turn to some of our readers. Bathe the wound constantly with hartshorn, and give three or four doses diluted during the day. The hartshorn decomposes chemically the virus insinuated into the wound, and immediately alters and destroys its deliteriousness.

Enoch Arden Again—A Nevada Widow Erects a Tomb-stone to her Husband, and is Visited by Him on the Eve of Second Marriage.

[From the Virginia (Nevada) Enterprise, March 25.]

About four years ago Henry Thomas married a young lady—no matter about her name—in the town of V——, C——county, California. About a year after their marriage Thomas concluded it best for both that he should come over the Sierra Nevada mountains and find work in our mines. Leaving his wife in California, he came here and obtained employment in a mine on Gould Hill. For some time all went well, and the wife heard regularly from her husband; then came a long and painful silence. Making inquiries by letter, she learned that a man named Henry Thomas, and answering the description in every respect to her husband, had been killed by a cave-in the very mine he had written her he was working.

She came over the mountains, and was shown the grave of her husband in the cemetery near American Flat. Obtaining employment at the hotel of Mrs. W——ly, in this city, she was soon able to erect a handsome tombstone over the grave of her dear departed, and, enclosing it with a handsome paling, planted rosebushes about the grave.

All this passed nearly three years ago, and her time of mourning having expired, she was wooed and won by a man whose acquaintance she had made here in Silverland. The day was fixed for the union of the loving pair, and during the past week, the widow was at work making the wedding garments. However, "there's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip." Day before yesterday came to the hotel of Mrs. W——ly a man whom she at once recognized as the veritable and genuine Henry Thomas, having known him in California, previous to and after the time of his marriage.

At first he denied being the man she had known, but finally admitted the fact upon being posted as to how matters were going in American Flat—the present residence of his wife. He went to see her, and presenting himself to her, asked her if she knew him, when she turned coolly away. He then made himself known and related so many circumstances that there was no room to doubt that he who stood before her was really her husband. At last she admitted that she knew him, but told him plainly that she wanted nothing more to do with him. As she had once mourned over his grave, and performed her duty in erecting a tombstone and planting rosebushes thereon, she perhaps thought that ought to suffice for not only one, but half a dozen Henry Thomases. Being unable to obtain any further satisfaction, the husband came back to this city, where he is now, undecided what course to pursue. It is pretty clear that the wedding cannot go on in the present state of the "situation," and it is said that a divorce suit will be the next step taken by the wife or widow, whichever she may be called. But we hear that there are even troubles in this direction, the lady being very religious and belonging to a church that does not much believe in divorces.

The Republican Party.

Senator Cragin, of New Hampshire, in a speech in the United States Senate last week, spoke as follows concerning the Republican party:

The Republican party carried the country triumphantly through the war brought upon it by wicked and ambitious traitors, and preserved the Union and all its precious legacies handed down to us from our fathers. It was true to its obligations, to country and to mankind. It struck the fetters from the limbs, and darkness and despondency from the souls of four million slaves, and made sure their freedom. No member of this party ever fired upon the flag of his country or murdered one of its defenders. Its principles are humane, democratic, and God-like, and its record is glorious and immortal. It now demands that victory over treason shall be victory legalized and perpetuated; that loyalty shall be honored and loyal men protected; that slavery once abolished shall forever remain abolished, and that the freedmen shall be secured and protected in their civil rights, and elevated into the full and consumate enjoyment of a Christian civilization. It demands that the burdens now resting so heavily upon the people shall be lightened and made equal, and that property of all kinds shall pay its just proportion of the taxes.

The Republican party, sir, is the people's party. It is the hope of the country and the anchor of its freedom. It is the representative of the true Democratic sentiment of the country. It bears aloft the banner of liberty and pleads for those rights of human nature which God has given to man. It swears by the Declaration of Independence and acknowledges the manhood of the whole human race. It teaches the great Christian Democratic doctrine that "all things, whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do you even so to them." It knows no baseness. Generous and humane, it rebukes the arrogant, cherishes honor, and sympathises with the humble.—It asks nothing but what it concedes and concedes nothing but what it demands. Destructive only to despotism and treason, it is the sole conservator of liberty, labor and property. It cherishes the sentiment of universal freedom, of equal rights, and equal obligations. It sides with the weak and down trodden and sympathises with every effort to elevate the people and better their condition. A true Republican, while claiming an equality with the best, scorns any political immunities not accorded to the humblest of his followers. The ark of our national salvation rests upon the shoulders of the men composing this party. I pray that they may be patient and strong, bold and prudent, patriotic and just, devout and self-sacrificing and resolute and mighty, that we may transmit to uncounted millions and unborn generations the blessings of free Democratic government.

A Japanese Belle.

Every Japanese girl, of no matter what class in society, appears inspired with an innate love of coquetry. The daughter of the humblest tradesmam loves to pass whole days in shopping and takes the greatest delight in preparing long before it is needed, the dress she intends to display for the first time at the next fete. The day arrived, the happy girl rises early in the morning, and while her fresh new dress lies in one corner of the room, impatiently submits to the dilatory labors of her hair-dresser, in whose profession there are some artists so celebrated that they devote whole hours to the study and toil requisite for the composition of some graceful or fashionable style, where the hair, carefully dressed with the brush and pomade, half hides a piece of crepe coquetishly chosen and fastened by heavy pins of tortoise shell or coral.—The chignon it must be confessed, is not altogether of Nature's growth, and if, after the hair, we examine the face, we shall see that Madame Rachel herself could not teach the Japanese much in the art of making up.—On the dressing table stand a perfect collection of little boxes just drawn from some hiding place; there are whites for the neck, the arms, the bust; reds for the mouth and the cheek; black for the eyes; sometimes gold for the lips; and yet, with all these aids from art, age is unable to conceal its decrepitude, while strangely enough the children are the most laden with paint. Putting aside this coquetry, universal in spite of its bad taste, the dress is very simple and invariably well chosen. A silk robe, generally of a dark hue, covers a chemise en crepe made of small patches of every color, a perfect harlequin's mantle, where bright green is placed beside a lively red. In winter the costume is completed by a short mantle doubled and thickened according to the season. The dress is long, without, and open from top to bottom; the upper part is confined by a belt broad enough to cover the breast and the lower part of the form, and terminating behind in an enormous knot, to tie which with more or less elegance demands a careful examination and many retouches. The sleeves hang like large pockets. To the belts are fastened a pipe in a velvet case and a pocketbook containing two chopsticks of silver, if it is intended to do honor to the host who may offer refreshments. In one corner of the pocketbook sparkles a little mirror, a European innovation, for our civilization has made this slight breach of Japanese manners. During the greater portion of the year the feet are bare; in winter they are clad in white cotton, and rest upon sandals of varnished wood, kept by wooden supports high enough above the ground to escape the mud and damp. The sandal is ornamented with braids of straw, or sometimes of velvet, and held to the foot by a slip of cloth passed between the toes. Occasionally it is re-covered with leather or paper, but is never honored by being worn in the house.

Impeachment Poetry.

Mr. Nelson, of counsel for President Johnson, paid a compliment to the press in his Thursday's speech that ought, perhaps, to let him slip unscathed through all editorial fingers. He said that it was "impossible not to know that the newspaper press is the greatest and most tremendous power in the country—greater than Senators or Representatives." Insomuch, however, as he confessed to only enunciating a truism, and as even this may have been for some subtle end of pleading, it may be justifiable to steel our bosoms against this flattery, and call Mr. Nelson to sharp account for his bad taste in larding an important speech with such trite quotations, and quotations, too, of poetry as would shame a schoolboy. It almost seems in reading his stale appropriations from Byron and Pope as though he must have got hold of his youngest son's writing book. Where else could a man "learned in the law" have found that 'Vice is a monster of such hideous mien,' &c.? And by what clause in the code of good taste did he venture the quotation in the trial of Andrew Johnson; and all the more particularly, when he stood as the President's friend, and was so bound not to say unpleasant things of him or deal in inuendos?

If we excuse this as a lapsus linguæ, induced by the excitement of the moment, it is still hard to find a reason that will cover and defend him for hurling upon his weakened auditory the novel statement that they should

—"place a whip in every honest hand
To lash the scoundrel naked through the land."

This looks as though Mr. Johnson's counsel had copied his own example of desertion, and gone over to the enemy with all his munitions. Fortunately for the President, this weapon has been in soak so long in the public vat that all of its original power long since left it, and left it as loose and vapid as champagne uncorked a week ago. But Mr. Nelson, possibly appreciating the fact, at once reinforces its weakness, on the principle, we suppose, that two negatives make an affirmative, by another quotation from the same garden of recondite lore, and tells us that when the "monster of hideous mien" is being "lashed naked through the land." Upon the whole—yes! We think under such circumstances the hair should do so without bandoline or cosmetic. But in the confusion created by this crowd of classical quotations we are hardly confident whether most to admire the breadth of Mr. Nelson's classic studies and the resources of the armory from which he draws so freely, or the appositeness of these quotations to the subject and object of the trial. Bewildered thus on this point, we must leave the whole with the expression of our admiration at finding a grave plea in a State trial for the most heinous of offences, illustrated by such excerpts from the horn book of primary school erudition. No great progress is necessary to carry the illustrations up to the grade of Mother Goose's venerable Melodies.

"Each particular hair should stand on end,
Like quills upon the fretful porcupine"—

Romance and Reality at the Hub.

Among the kind, fair hands that fairly patted kind approval of Mr. Dickens here, was a pair that have a history. That diamond was placed on that finger eight years ago, and it has not been removed since, nor will it be until a plainer circlet is put on another. Without mentioning a name that is well known here as a guarantee of old Puritan stock, it will answer to say that the young lady is the youngest daughter of one of our first families and has been a beauty from a mere child.—When she was some years younger than now, and when there was not that impassible gulf between the first families of Boston and the F. F.'s of the South, she became engaged to a young South Carolinian, a student at Harvard. True to his promise made to her, the youth, when hostilities commenced, held aloof from the military organization which sprang up around him, and sought to serve his State in the diplomatic line. He went over to France some little time after Mason and Slidell, and worked under them at the French court and elsewhere, doing valuable service, for one so young in financiering and intrigue. Meantime his father died; his family estates were confiscated, and ravaged now by one side and now by the other, and the close of the war found him almost penniless and an exile. As the young lady was by this time fully of age, and as her lover had now an honest right to be called a loyal man, she announced her engagement to her immediate family. Of course, there was the strongest opposition to such an arrangement, especially as the proposed gentleman was without fortune; but the determined girl maintained her right to confer her hand on whom she pleased, flashed the diamond of her engagement ring in the eyes of her opponents, and declared her intention to be unalterable. The young ex-rebel also struck out manfully. He worked well and assiduously, and, happening to come under the notice of Erlanger, he made a favorable impression, and became in a small way, a protege of that financier. By him he was put in the way of doing a good thing; in fact several good things; and, by the bankers help rose quickly to the possession of a competency in hand, and the prospect of more than that if he keeps on. But, to come to the close of this story, the fruition of the faithful pair is nearly at hand. The stern father has succumbed to what he sees to be a necessity, and next month the quandom rebel, now a French banker, will be here to take his bride from the same house in which he won her heart as a young student.—Boston Correspondence Chicago Times.

The Beaver Argus.

Republican State Ticket.

AUDITOR GENERAL.
GEN. JOHN F. HARTRANFT,
OF MONTGOMERY COUNTY.

SURVEYOR GENERAL.
GEN. JACOB M. CAMPBELL,
OF CAMBRIA COUNTY.

IN addition to the bill prohibiting persons having any "visible admixture" of negro blood from voting, the Ohio Legislature have introduced another, disfranchising all college and seminary students, of whatever age. The only exception is in those cases where the parents of the student live in the county and township where the institution is situated. It is estimated that some 10,000 students will be deprived of the ballot if this becomes a law.

THE General Conference of the M. E. Church met at Chicago on last Friday, and will probably be in session for several weeks. It is composed of nine bishops, two hundred and thirty delegates from sixty-eight annual conferences, representing about eight thousand ordained preachers, with visiting representatives from similar bodies in Canada and Europe.

THE result of the Republican convention in Greene county, a couple of weeks ago, does not seem to have given anything like general satisfaction on the Congressional nomination. It will be remembered that the conferees were instructed to vote for J. B. Donley, the present Bankruptcy Register. The complaint now is that the designation of a candidate for Congress and the selection of conferees was premature, some of the parties in interest not thinking that the Congressional question would be acted upon at that time. Those who are dissatisfied urge the holding of a new convention.

ANOTHER General has flung the proffered bribe in the face of Andrew Johnson. Gen. Schofield has rejected the proffer of the War Office. Why not send in the names of all the Generals in a lump and see if any one of them will stick. It would save time and prevent hard feelings among those slighted. The names might be written on a "round robin" to show that Mr. Johnson has no personal feeling in the matter.

THE Revolution, edited by Susan B. Anthony, Mrs. Cady Stanton and Parker Pillsbury, which lauds Wendell Phillips and Anna Dickinson and abuses General Grant and the Republican party, is sent over the country under the frank of James Brooks, the Copperhead Congressman. The Revolution declares it hopes to see the Republican party destroyed, and is therefore in full accord with the Copperheads. And yet the Phillips-Dickinson-Anthony slanders on Republicans are retailed as the utterances of Republicans!

THE English expedition to Abyssinia, to rescue certain British subjects whom the negro king of that country has held captive since his gallant offer of marriage was declined by Queen Victoria, has been entirely successful. Penetrating to the interior of that country, General Napier fought a battle with King Theodorus on Good Friday, defeating him with great loss. The fortress in which the captives were confined was subsequently taken by storm and the prisoners, who were found all living and well, were safely released.

GEN. W. W. IRWIN, the new State Treasurer, left his home in this county on last Wednesday for Harrisburg, to take charge of the duties of the office to which he was elected by the Legislature last February. Those duties began on Monday the 4th inst. General Irwin has filled so many offices of responsibility, and so considerately and honestly has he discharged every duty pertaining to them, that we sincerely believe he will make one of the most reliable and efficient State officers Pennsylvania ever had. Courteous in manner, prompt in action, a skillful financier, and withal a man of the strictest integrity we venture but little in saying that the Legislature that honored him with an election will never have cause to regret its choice. At least that is the belief entertained here by those who have been personally acquainted with him since his childhood.

THE Southern elections have completely shown the groundless character of those apprehensions in which certain partizan Democratic journals have freely indulged. We were assured by these prophets of evil that collisions between the two races, with violent outbreaks, outrages, riots, murders and exterminating popular conflicts, would drench the South everywhere with blood. The actual results present a contrast to these gloomy forebodings which seems almost ludicrous when we remember what a dreadful state of things was foretold. The Associated Press dispatches, which have steadily bourne their own ear marks of being in rebel sympathy, are so uniform in their reports of the quiet and good order by which the elections have been marked, that one cannot fail to draw comparisons unfavorable, even to the experience of some of our own loyal Northern communities at election time. The city of New York alone, voting for President next November, will see more heads broken, blood shed, personal and partizan outrages generally, than were recorded last week between the Cape Fear and the Mississippi river. Instead of the Southern heart having been fired by negro equality into an indignant and bloody resistance to the laws, there is plenty of evidence, not only that the situation has been quietly accepted, but that Democratic-Conservatism has, in many cases, eagerly conciliated the negro support.—Pitts Gazette.

THE impeachment case is drawing to a close. Manager Bingham, who had the closing address began his argument on Monday. After he gets through, which will be to-day probably, (Wednesday), the case will pass into the hands of "the Jury"—the Senate. The Democrats at Washington and elsewhere, it is said, are confident of acquittal; and on the other hand, the Republicans are equally confident of his conviction. We are inclined to think that the President's official days are numbered.

THE county convention of the Republican party held last year, adopted a resolution requiring the sense of the Republicans of the county to be taken on the popular vote system of nominating candidates. The chairman of the county committee has therefore requested the Republican voters to instruct their delegates to the approaching convention as to what their wishes are on the question named. Neither the resolution of the convention one year ago, nor the call of the county committee published at the present time, gives us to understand exactly what is meant by the "popular vote system." In Lawrence county they have what is called the "mixed popular vote" plan of nominating candidates. Its working is something like this: At the primary meetings the voting is done by ballot. Delegates to the county convention are also selected at these meetings from the townships and boroughs, in the ratio of one for every fifty Republican votes cast at the preceding general election. These delegates carry the result of the primary meetings to the county convention. Here the vote of each candidate is consolidated, and if it is found that any one has a majority of all the votes cast, for a particular office, he is declared the nominee of the party for that position. If, however, no one has a majority of all the votes cast, the delegates then proceed to vote in convention for a candidate, and after the first two votes are taken, and no one having a majority, the candidate having the lowest number is dropped, and at each succeeding vote another is thrown overboard, until a nomination is made. This system does not appear to be satisfactory in that county, for we notice that while one Republican paper there supports the mixed system, and urges the party to adhere to it, the other one opposes it, and advocates the adoption of the Crawford county plan.

The Crawford county system dispenses with delegates entirely. Under it the Republican voters assemble at the usual places of holding elections. They there select one person to act as judge and two persons to serve as clerks. The polls are then opened, the voting done by ballot, and a registry is kept of all the persons voting. None but Republicans and qualified voters are permitted to take part.—After the votes are all in, the ballots are counted and the exact number credited to each candidate. The returns are then certified to by the judge and clerks, sealed, and carried to the county seat on the succeeding Monday by the judge. When these judges are all present from the different townships and boroughs, the returns are opened, the votes are aggregated, and the person having the highest number of votes—not a majority, remember—is declared the nominee.

We presume it is this system we are called upon to express our views at the approaching primary meetings. At least that is the general understanding. It is very apparent to us, and it must be so to a great many others, that our delegate system in this county does not satisfy all of our people. Complaints are numerous. The charge is frequently made after our conventions are held that the delegates traded this candidate and that one off, that they were manipulated after coming to the county seat, and that no man unless skilled in the art of scheming and trickery can get a nomination in a delegate convention. Whether these charges have any foundation or not they have created distrust in many minds, and this distrust has induced quite a number of the best Republicans of the county to declare their unwillingness ever to attend a primary meeting again, unless a change is made. They reason in this way: "There is no use in my going to the primary meeting. If the persons for whom I vote do not get a majority in the township, my vote will be lost, and I have no expectation that they will be able to do this, therefore I shall give myself no labor or trouble about the matter. But if I knew my vote would be counted in the aggregate, I would attend and cast my ballot for the men of my choice." Another says: "My attending the primary meeting will do no good, for the delegates, after they get to Beaver, will do as they please at any rate, and nominate a ticket that will suit themselves without reference to what I might think or say on the subject." In deference to these persons and to their feelings in this particular, we believe that the Crawford county system should be given a trial in this county. If after trying it one year, we find it unsatisfactory, we can return to our old ways. But we believe after trying it once we shall wonder why we did not adopt it long ago. The principal objection to it seems to be an apprehension that the voters of a borough living near each other, and close to the polls, will come out in all their strength concentrate their vote on certain candidates, and nominate them in spite of the country districts, whose voters are scattered and live at a greater distance from where the meetings are held. Such a thing might occur but it is not likely to. In Beaver, for instance, there is usually more splitting on candidates than anywhere else in the county.—But if this were not so, the "popular vote system" gives every Republican an equal chance, and if he foregoes his privilege of attending the polls, and voting directly for his choice, assured that his vote will have its due weight in the final summing up, because of the distance he has to go to exercise it, and if in consequence of this, objectionable men are nominated, it is his own misfortune or fault, and not a defect in the system itself. But this fear of the boroughs proves entirely groundless when the matter is tested by experience. In Crawford—the starting place of the system—large boroughs are found here and there over the county. The popular vote plan was adopted there in 1860, and no effort was since made or is now being made to discard it. The country districts have not been overreached by the boroughs, and no complaint is made that they ever have been. For a number of years past the Republican party of Lancaster county has been threatened with a "smash up" because of its delegate system. The Crawford plan was suggested as a remedy for the evil, but the country districts protested against it on the ground that the boroughs would control all nominations. Their political troubles continued to grow. The country districts were again appealed to. They finally yielded and consented to try it for one year. This was in 1867, and the result was, the best attended primary meetings ever held in the county, an unexceptionable ticket was formed, and now but few can be found in that county who want to go back to the delegate system; yet Lancaster county has probably as many thickly populated boroughs as any other county in the State. In the West and in the New England States, the popular vote plan generally prevails, and many attribute, in a measurable degree, our "rousing" majorities in these localities to its harmonious workings. For, after submitting his claims for a nomination to a direct vote of the people, a defeated candidate has no pretext for "bolting," nor for feeling even "soured" toward his party. He was neither "traded off" by the delegates at the county convention, nor cheated out of his "rights" by a "Court House clique." The people simply preferred some one else, and if he has any manliness at all he can do no less than submit to the decision, and take his place in the ranks again with as good a grace as possible. Nearly all of them do this where the popular vote plan is in vogue, and hence party harmony is the rule, not the exception, and the tendency is to strengthen rather than weaken the organization. Another point: Go where we will or look where we may, we know of no county anywhere that having once adopted the popular vote plan returned to the delegate system again. This circumstance of itself is a powerful argument in favor of its adoption here or elsewhere, where it does not now prevail. The merits then of the rule suggested, in our view, are these: Defeated candidates are prevented from charging their misfortunes to "Court House cliques," or unfaithful delegates. They must abide the result uncomplainingly or quarrel directly with the people. It enables every Republican to vote directly for the candidates of his choice knowing that, let the township or borough go as it will, his vote will not be lost to those for whom it was cast. It will induce a larger number of Repulicans to attend the primary meetings than any other plan, and this will give us better men as candidates for our various public offices, a consideration not to be overlooked in these office-hunting times. It will remove all disturbing elements in our party at the present time, and enable us to act more harmoniously in the future than we have been able to do in the past.

The Democratic Presidential Movement.

A number of military gentlemen claiming allegiance to the Democratic party, met in New York, on Tuesday evening, to take measures for securing the nomination of Gen. Hancock for President on the Democratic ticket. Maj. Gen. Gorden Granger, who heads the Executive Committee appointed by the Cleveland Convention of 1866, presided. The Committee was fully represented, and it is a significant fact that not one of them had a word to say in favor of Andrew Johnson. It was concluded to hold a National Convention of Democratic soldiers and sailors, in New York on the same day with the regular National Democratic Convention, and it was determined to make an effort to induce the National Executive Committee to fix an earlier day for the nomination—the Fourth of July being regarded as too late. The gentlemen present were very frank in saying that Pendleton is not the man to pit against Grant, and that Hancock is the most available candidate.

The Manhattan Club, the leading Democratic organization of New York city, has been carefully canvassing the Presidential question for some time past; and it is stated, on competent authority, that, after a survey of the whole field, the Club has come to the conclusion that the convention cannot possibly agree upon either Pendleton or Seymour; that, after a hot preliminary struggle between the friends of these parties, Hancock's name will be brought forward, and a complimentary vote given; but, on account of objections to him which cannot be overcome, he will be set aside and Senator Hendricks, of Indiana, nom[illegible] York, for Vice-President. The Democracy is in trouble on the Presidential question, and will be until the close of the campaign, when they will be relieved from further anxiety by the triumphant election of Gen. Grant.—Pitts Com.

Celebrating a Birth-Day.

With a grand banquet the other day and much post-prandial and bibulous oratory the State-rights and pro-slavery Democrats of the North celebrated the birth-day of Thomas Jefferson—that honest and conscientious old Radical—who, a slave-holder himself, boldly declared that he trembled when he thought of the system and remembered that God was just. The aristocracy of modern Democracy gathered at the St. James to insult the memory—by claiming his name—of our dead statesman. Governor Seymour of Connecticut, the brutal Brick Pomeroy of Wisconsin, Hon. Edward Ingersoll of Pennsylvania, Henry Clay Dean, the drunken renegade preacher of Iowa, ex-Mayor Gunther of New York, all were there, and apparently on a level, enjoying the most perfect equality and a delightful communion of intellect and soul. "Nagurs," we presume, were excluded. The speeches were of the stereotyped style, now the exclusive property of the Democracy—weak ethnology, worse theology, and utterly silly politics and social economy. With characteristic doughfacedness the South was toasted and the West, but not the mighty North. As a specimen of the calibre of the concern, an individual by the name of Lowe gravely informed the table that Jefferson had at one time made the grand declaration that "all white men were created equal," and the table listened. Such is the Democracy in our day. Is not the spectacle humiliating! Is not the modern, bogus, and bastard organization an insult to the names of Jefferson and Madison and Randolph and Tompkins?—Forney's Press.

OUR attention was called to the fact, by an article in the Harrisburg State Guard, that all the Republicans papers of the State, the REPOSITORY included, fail to give Jacob M. Campbell, our candidate for Surveyor General, his full rank as a soldier. He entered a company of the three months' volunteers, of which he was elected first lieutenant, and was the officer who assisted to pitch the first tent in Camp Curtin. At the expiration of the three months' service, Lieutenant Campbell organized and was made Colonel of the Fifty-fourth Regiment, P. V. After being in the field only a short time, Col. Campbell was ordered to the command of a Brigade, which he led in many a hard fight for a year and a half, retaining the confidence of his subordinate officers as a man of bravery and a soldier of ability. March 13, 1865, Col. Campbell was made a brevet Brigadier General. In view of the above fact, so honorable to a deserving soldier we give Brigadier General Campbell his proper rank at the head of our editorial columns.—Chambersburg Repository.

A CORRESPONDENT signing himself "Georgia" informs us that he has lost $60,000 worth of slaves by the emancipation policy of the Republican party, and asks if that is consistent with that clause of the Constitution which forbids private property to be taken for public uses without just compensation. We will reply to his conundrum by asking him another. When our Savior, on one occasion, meeting two men possessed of devils in a very aggravating and excessive number, ordered the devils to depart and enter into certain swine which were feeding near at hand, and when the swine, under this sudden and unfortunate inspiration, kicked up their heels and with one accord "ran down a steep place into the sea and were drowned," had the owner of the swine a right of action in trespass against their Creator for taking his private property for a public use without paying for it? If so then "Georgia" is entitled to pay for the loss of his slaves.—N. Y. Tribune.

The Democrats and the Presidency.

Gen. Halpine (Miles O'Reilly) in his paper, the New York Citizen, reads the Democratic party a vigorous lecture on what they should do about the Presidency. He tells them plainly that if they permit the outrageous leadership of which Brick Pomeroy's paper is the organ, to go much farther, decent men will leave the party. Already, he says, the party is in an "awkward position," composed as it is of conflicting and antagonistic interests, "consistency with the stupidities of the last six years," says the Citizen, "insure utter ruin." The article in this respect is so outspoken that we quote the following for the benefit of our Democratic friend:

"The organization happens to be composed of conflicting and antagonistic elements; a large portion of it consists of actual, positive [illegible] of the South, and flunkies at its feet; [illegible] men, sub[illegible] would rather be kicked by a Southern man than kissed by a Northern woman. These cravens go bodily for their representative, their worthy exemplar, George H. Pendleton; will have him and no one else, and actually despise and repudiate Governor Seymour as too much of a war man. They are resolute and vindictive. They have secured the party machinery to their favorite, and have given him a long start in advance of all other candidates."

The Citizen thinks Hancock is the man to nominate, for there are thousands of Democrats who will [illegible]e for no other candidate against Grant. [illegible] for Pendleton, the following rather emphatic language is employed:

"We say distinctly, positively, and unchangeably as the law of the Medes and Persians, that never will those for whom we speak, help direc[illegible] or indirectly, by assertion or silence, by act[illegible] or idleness, the election of the utter co[illegible]perhead and false-hearted Northerner, Geo[illegible] H. Pendleton. Until water runs up hill, [illegible]il trees grow with leaves underground and [illegible]ots above, until the moon gives heat and [illegible]n loses its fire, until beasts become men and [illegible]gels turn to devils, until ice shall burn [illegible]re shall freeze, until everything that is [illegible]possible becomes possible, and not then, will [illegible] Democrats vote for the man who was fa[illegible] only to his country but to his section, [illegible] was conspicuous only as a degrading [illegible]ple of possible Northern meanness, [illegible], by his indirect support to their fo[illegible] [illegible] their sons and brothers.—Rather a t[illegible]sand times would they see the loyal sold[illegible] moderate Republican, Gen. Grant, in [illegible] Presidential chair, a person who if not agr[illegible] with them in all their views, is more [illegible] their representative than a copperhead [illegible] prudence kept him from being a tra[illegible]"

"SNEA[illegible]—The Lock Haven Democrat calls th[illegible]bers of the "Grand Army of the Republi[illegible]eaks. During the war while the Copper[illegible] "sneaked" off to Canada, and to hidi[illegible]ces in the fastnesses of the forests and mo[illegible]s, these same members of the Grand [illegible] of the Republic were at the front, [illegible] their breasts to the fierce shock of batt[illegible]efense of the national flag. The "sneak[illegible] the men who eluded the draft, who co[illegible]ly cried "the war is a failure," who [illegible]ly placed every obstacle in the way o[illegible]overnment, and who sympathized wi[illegible]enemies of their country. They poss[illegible] the meanness, treason, and hatred [illegible] that characterized the Tories of the [illegible]ion, but were wanting in their cours[illegible]ill becomes such creatures to stigm[illegible]ho brave soldiers who crushed out t[illegible]lion, as "sneaks."

T[illegible]mbus (Ohio) Journal tells the following [illegible]eneral Sherman:—At one of the Cont[illegible] towns, where he was brought out [illegible]atform to be seen by fellow-citizens [illegible]fore the train left he observed a tall [illegible] looking fellow approaching the cars [illegible]g the crowd in a most excited man[illegible] bellowing 'Sherman! Sherman! don[illegible]ow me?' The General intimated tha[illegible]ot, at the moment, recognize his que[illegible] a familiar countenance. 'Don't you [illegible]ber down in Georgia, stopping one [illegible] the march where there was a scro[illegible]wa standing looking on a chicken [illegible] General laughed. 'Yes he did ren[illegible] 'Well,' said the fellow, with a gri[illegible]able satisfaction and modest triu[illegible] was my rooster what whipped.'"

[illegible]a in an able editorial on the impe[illegible]ncludes with the following paragraph: [illegible] leave this subject without saying [illegible] was proved which ought to re[illegible] President's conviction—his direct [illegible]unication to the Alabama Legis[illegible] a defeat of the XIVth Amendment [illegible] was a bold and plain violation [illegible] duty; a bold and plain interfer[illegible] exclusive functions of Congress.

Adjourned Court.—An adjourned Court began its session in this place yesterday, (Tuesday, May 5th). All the Judges were present.

Forepaugh's Exhibition will be in Beaver on next Monday. If our exchanges do not exaggerate, this is the very best traveling show in the country at the present time. It is a menagerie and circus combined, but is so arranged that persons desiring to see the animal part only can do so before the circus begins. Its collection of animals is said to be the largest on the continent.

Temperance Lecture.—The temperance lecture delivered last week in Beaver, by a Mr. Nicholson of Philadelphia, is very highly spoken of by those who were present during its delivery. We were not in attendance at the Court House on last Friday evening when he lectured in this place, but those who were, enjoyed a rare treat.

Robbery in Beaver.—On last Friday night, some person or persons broke into the dwelling of Mr. John Shively, on Fourth street, Beaver, and took therefrom all the money they could get their hands on. The sum thus obtained was about $45. Mr. Shively, we believe, has as yet no clue to the robbers.

The Wool Trade.—We observe some little stir in this place in the wool trade. Our neighbors across the way, Messrs. Orr & Cooper, are purchasing all that can be bought at their prices. The usual rates are from 40 to 48 cents per pound. Of course it is the fleece to which we refer.

Quite a novel scene was presented at the depot, on Friday morning last, by the accidental meeting of Com. Foote and party, by Tom Thumb and party.—We do not suppose that as many little folks of such size were ever seen before. They had but a few minutes to spend together while the trains were shifting, when they bid good bye, and the former departed by the main line while the latter kept on down the river.—Wellsville Union May 1.

Soldiers' Orphans—Religious Services.—The soldiers' orphans' composing the School at Phillipsburg, this county, will be in attendance at Rev. D. P. Lowary's Church in this place on next Sabbath, at 10½ A. M., to listen to religious services conducted by the above named pastor. The public generally should make it a point to be present on the occasion, as Mr. Lowary, is not only an efficient minister, but a very entertaining speaker besides.

The Fruit Crop.—The fruit crop here and elsewhere, with the exception of peaches perhaps, promises well this season. The blossoms are rapidly appearing on the apple trees and in great numbers. The same is true of plums, cherries, and the smaller fruits. The peach crop will be to some extent a failure in consequence of the buds being injured by winter freezing. Similar information reaches us from the West; hence if the fruit crop escapes further vicissitudes, we will have plenty of apples, plums, cherries, &c., at least.

Pennsylvania Reserve Association.—We would call the attention of our soldier friends of Beaver County who belonged to the Penn'a. Reserves, that there will be a reunion of the surviving officers and men in Pittsburgh on the 30th inst. A gala time is expected. All who at any time belonged to the gallant reserves are cordially invited to attend. An oration will be delivered by Gen. Todd, and it is expected that an eulogy on the late Gen. Geo. A. McCall will be pronounced.

Fresh Fish.—Capt. R. F. McIlvaine, of Rochester, receives a fine lot of fresh fish from Cleveland, twice a week, (Wednesday and Friday,) which he is selling at reasonable rates. He visits Beaver on each of the days named. Persons desiring a mess of Salmon, White fish &c., can be accommodated by "looking out" for him.

Editor Argus:—The Local says that "neither Mr. Hartford nor Dr. Hamilton was desirous of the nomination" for the Legislature at the meeting of the Democratic convention in this place some ten days ago. If this is so will the Local please inform us why they had their names before the people so long as applicants for nominations? They advertised themselves as candidates, and I presume paid the announcement fee. But if they were not desirous of being nominated, I repeat, I want to know what they did want in thus doing? Let us have the information.

FAIR PLAY.

Stirring Music.—On last Tuesday evening the Rochester Cornet Band, under the leadership of Mr. William A. Smith, paid our town a visit, and discoursed some excellent music at different points in the place. This band was organized in Rochester some few months ago and promises to be a permanent "fixture" of the county. Those having charge of political gatherings during the approaching campaign would perhaps do well to hear it play before hastening to Pittsburgh or elsewhere to procure music on such occasions.

The Beaver Public School.—The School directors of Beaver borough met at the law office of Henry Hice, Esq., on last Thursday evening, and determined on having the Public School of the place open eight months of the coming school year. The wages of the teachers to be the same as last year, viz., to the Principal $75 per month, and to each of his assistants $35 per month. The board selected the following persons as teachers: Prof. Lakin as Principal, Miss Leonard as teacher in No. 3, Mrs. Marquis as teacher in No. 2, and Miss Minta Anderson as teacher in No. 1. The School opened on last Monday morning, with the understanding that there is to be a vacation of several weeks duration during the very warm weather.

Rejected.—Some person at McCleery, this county, signing himself "Paul N." sends us some poetry for publication in the Argus, entitled "Good night." He withholds his real name. In the absence of this, if even his "piece" possessed a general interest, we would not publish it. "Paul N.," as we learn from his poetry, has a little "duck" that he has been paying attention to for some time back. He calls to see her frequently. He is in raptures about her hand, "with its weight of rings," her "delicious eyes," "chestnut braids of hair," "perfect mouth," &c., &c. The hand particularly is what "gets him." When he says "Good night" to her she invariably puts her hand "this'n," and "Then! Oh! Then!" What occurs just then he does not inform us, but we have our suspicions. "Paul" is going to marry his "duck" before long, and if he speaks his sentiments truly and quotes correctly, they are both dreadful anxious for the "happy time" to arrive.

A Precocious Youth.—On Wednesday of last week Mr. James Best, a baker, doing business at No. 59 Fifth street extension, while driving along Water street in his wagon, was accosted by a boy, who stated that his brother, with whom he had formerly lived at Beaver, Pa., had cruelly turned him away from the house, and having no friends or relatives, or any visible means of support, desired Mr. Best to give him work. The latter, who, from the boy's plaintive story, had found sympathy for him, took the lad into the wagon and to his home. Every one connected with Mr. Best's family were pleased with the boy's appearance, and in a short time he became a favorite. The boy kept store, ran errands, and also had the run of the money drawer, but not very long, as Mr. Best missed various sums of money which he knew had been placed in the drawer. Mrs. Best told the boy about the loss when he frankly confessed having taken the money. He also informed her that every time he took any money they were both in the store, but he could take money out of her pocket without her knowledge. He spoke from experience, he said, having done it before now. He afterwards told her that his name was Mortimer Wilson Lorentz and that he was about fifteen years old. At the age of nine years he was arrested for stealing a gun and committed to the House of Refuge. He remained there almost six years, having been released only a short time before he came to Mr. Best. He had not seen his brother at Beaver since he was committed to the Refuge, and did not know whether he was living or dead.—Mr. Best desires to get rid of him, and not desiring to throw him upon the public, where he will doubtless pursue his nefarious business will take the necessary steps to have him recommitted to the Refuge.—Pitts. Commercial, May 1.

The Braggarts Brought to Grief.—Editor Argus:—Some two weeks ago the Local informed the public that one of its cop. friends had offered to wager $50 with some "Rad" that the Local's circulation doubled that of the Argus. The editor of the Local in the same connection expressed a desire to bet that the Argus' circulation did not exceed 700 copies per week. In your last issue I notified this cop and the editor of the Local that I would accept both bets and meet them at Jack Clark's store on last Tuesday evening at 7 p. m. to arrange details and deposit the "stamps." I also offered to wager $50 with one or both of them that the Argus' circulation exceeded 1,000 per week. Now for the result!

The Local was circulated in Beaver in the afternoon before the betting was to take place. Not a word had it to say on the subject one way or another. It was as mute as a mouse on the question. At 7 p. m., in company with a couple of friends I went to Clark's store with all the needful currency on hand, but to my surprise neither the aforesaid cop, the editor of the Local nor any other representative of their party was there. I waited until 9 p. m., and not a man of them as much as deigned to make his appearance. In short, so far as they were concerned, it "was von grand fizzle."—Now let us hear no more of this foolish bombast from that quarter. I have given them a chance to make good their pompous assertions, but they have failed to come to time, as the above shows conclusively.

"Surface Indications."—At the Democratic primary meeting in Raccoon township, on last Saturday one week ago, a Capt. David Smith, at present residing in that township, was elected as one of the delegates to attend the county convention held in this place on the succeeding Monday. After the Democracy had elected him, he arose, thanked them for the honor conferred, but declined to serve in that capacity.

This Capt. Smith was in the South at the breaking out of the war, and attaching himself to the fortunes of the Southern Confederancy, he joined the rebel army, and, if we are not misinformed, continued to fight against the Union until the bitter end.

We do not know Capt. Smith personally. He may be for aught we know to the contrary, a very respectable man in his social relations. But politically speaking, the party in Beaver county that selects a man who served in the rebel army as its representative in preference to those who were found in the Union ranks or who gave aid to the loyal cause, is disloyal at heart and insultingly disrespectful besides. Capt. Smith showed far more manliness and a far higher appreciation of the feelings of his loyal neighbors in declining to be a delegate to the Democratic convention than his party did in attempting to bestow such an honor upon him.

An Organ "Galloping" into Favor.—A most remarkable piece of musical mechanism, in the shape of an organ, representing the compass of the human voice,) is creeping, or rather galloping, into public favor. It is called the Burdett Organ, whose tones, no not tones merely or abstractly considered as such, but whose utterances are made to excite almost any emotion of the human heart, whether of joy or of sorrow, at the will of the performer, and cause the listener to wonder how it lives without eating and drinking like human beings. Those enterprising gentlemen, H. Kleber & Bro., 122 Wood street, Pittsburgh, have it for sale, and would be pleased to exhibit to those who desire to witness its powers, the wonderful capacity it possesses to inspire our minds, stir our hearts, and mingle its tender and touching sympathies with those of the human breast. It is said that one gentleman, on visiting this amazing specimen of human invention, for the second time, so far forgot himself that he actually addressed it—"Good morning, Madame!"—Eastern exchange paper. [apr 1-6t.

The Eight-Hour Law.—The following is the text of the Eight-Hour law passed at the last session of the Legislature.

SEC. 1. That on and after the first day of July, 1868, eight hours of labor between the rising and setting of the sun, shall be deemed and held to be a legal day's work in all cases of labor and service by the day, when there is no contract or agreement to the contrary.—Provided, The pay be the same as in ten hours. SEC. 2. This act shall not apply to, or in any way affect, farm or agricultural labor or service by the year, month or week; nor shall any person be prevented by anything here in contained, from working as many hours over-work, or extra work as he or she may see fit, the compensation to be agreed upon between the employer and the employee. SEC. 3. All other acts or parts of acts relating to the hours of labor which shall constitute a day's work in this State are repealed.

A New Store has been opened in Beaver Falls, by our friend Milo A. Townsend, embracing the various departments of Wall Paper, Books, Stationery, Hats, Newspapers, Magazines and Fancy Articles.

Robinson's Menagerie & Circus exhibited in Rochester, on last Monday afternoon and evening. A moderate sized audience was in attendance in the afternoon. In the evening the canvass was filled to overflowing. From here the show went to Allegheny. It is transported by water, the company having chartered a large steamer for the purpose.

The Chicago Republican makes the following gratifying statement: From Judge Henry Fuller, just returned from the peach regions on the other side of the lake, in Michigan, we learn that the buds give great promise of fruit. Some of the earlier varieties of peaches are in bloom. Unless the late frosts interfere, despite the protection of the lake's influence, there will be a great crop of peaches in the Michigan orchards this year of 1868.

August Belmont states that the time for the meeting of the Democratic National Convention, will not be changed. It appears that certain leaders are not willing to have the Convention meet before the Fourth of July for many important reasons: the principal one being a desire to be acquainted with the Republican nominations and platform.

We are assured from Washington that Mr. Wade is restive under the allegation that he has promised offices to certain persons in the event of his becoming acting President, and denies that he has ever spoken to anybody on such a subject. Individuals, pretending to be intimate with him, have, without the slightest intimation from him, made him trouble by their hints that important Cabinet offices will be given to unpopular men.

Union Republican County Convention.—The Union Republican voters of Beaver County are requested to meet at the usual places of holding elections in the several boroughs and townships on SATURDAY, THE 30TH DAY OF MAY, 1868, and appoint Delegates to a county Convention, to be held on at 11 o'clock, a. m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Congress, Assembly, District Attorney, County Commissioner, Poor House Director, Auditor, Coroner and Trustees of Academy.

The primary meetings in the townships will be between the hours of 3 and 7 o'clock p. m., and in the boroughs between the hours of 7 and 9 p. m.

In obedience to a resolution of County Convention the voters of the several districts are requested to instruct their delegates on the question of adopting the popular vote system in nominating candidates for the future.

The voting for candidates in the different districts shall be by ballot. Each candidate must procure the printing and attend to the circulation of his own tickets.

By order of Co. Committee.
D. L. IMBRIE, Chairman.

A Swindling Scheme.—Some scamp has been endeavoring to put money in his purse by pretending to play "express messenger," delivering Adams Express Company envelopes, purporting to contain valuable remittances, and collecting the charges. A lady residing on Beaver street, Allegheny, near Ohio street, paid one dollar and seventy-five cents for one of these envelopes, purporting to contain seven hundred dollars, and addressed to her husband. It contained a worthless check on the First National Bank of Columbus.—Pitts. Com.

Two days before his assassination, McGee spent Sunday with a friend at Ottawa, and had a dream which he related, and which, in view of subsequent circumstances, seems like a singular premonition. "I dreamt," he said, "I was standing by the Fall of Niagara, and saw a boat containing two men sailing down the rapids, and approaching the brink of the cataract. Seeing their danger and apparent ignorance of it, I rushed forward to warn them. The boat turned round and proceeded up the rapids, and I went over into the gulf beneath."

The Tionesta Bee wants to know if the David Small recently elected burgomaster of York borough, is the same individual who, when Mayor of that place in June, 1863, walked seven miles to surrender the town to the rebels.—Warren Mail.

He is the identical David, with an addition to his faith. In 1863 he believed in traitors; now he has a great affection for Ku-Kluxers.—State Guard.

When Andrew Johnson attempted to deprive Congress of the power to reconstruct the revolted States, he was guilty of usurpation.

Ruby Cooking Stove Nos. 7, 8, & 9.

THIS STOVE TOOK THE FIRST PREMIUM AT the State Fair as a Coal Cooking Stove, and also at the late County Fair. We use no scrap iron in their manufacture, but make them exclusively of No. 1 Pig Metal, and warrant them in every respect.

The Ruby has the largest oven in the market and consumes but little fuel in baking, owing to to our improved Grate.

GRATE FRONTS AND FENDERS.

We are largely engaged in the manufacture of Grate Fronts and Fenders, which we enamel in an oven common, second quality and fine finish. This enamel retains its lustre for a long time, will not burn off, and makes a much superior finish to that of Coal Tar.

SUMMER PIECES.

We are also making Sheet Iron Summer Pieces (for which we have applied for a patent) pressed up in a Hydraulic press. They are much lighter than cast Iron, and much cheaper.

HEATING STOVES.

We claim the heaviest heating Stove in the market for the size, and use the best Stock in their construction.

Our patterns are not yet complete, but it is our intention to keep a general assortment in our line.

We also took the Premium at the County Fair for Castings generally, and we have entered in to the business with the determination to use the best of Pig Metal and make good work.

We respectfully request a share of the public patronage, and would be pleased to see those wanting anything in our line at our woks.

Prices Low to suit the times.

ROCHESTER FOUNDRY,

ANDERSON, ARBUCKLE & CO.

MANUFACTURERS OF MACHINE CASTINGS, Railway Track and Car Castings, Agricultural Implements, Engine and all other Castings made at a first class Foundry. Also, Stoves, Grate Fronts, Grate Bars, Liners Sash Weights, Hollow-Ware, Kettles, Iron Fence, and all other Castings called for, on short notice and of the very best metal.

Also, J. J. Anderson's justly celebrated New Cook Stove for Coal and Wood, which took the

First Premium

At the State Fair recently held at Pittsburgh. This Stove combines many new and important principles, which place it far in advance of all others now in use. Some of the merits claimed for it by the Inventor, are Heavy Metal, Well Proportioned, Beauty of Style and Finish, Ease of Draft, Easily Kept Clean, Requires but little Fuel, and the BEST BAKER EXTANT.

All orders thankfully received and promptly filled.

We Call Attention to the Following Statements:

While living in the East I used several of the most Celebrated Cooking Stoves made in that part of the country, and on my arrival here, I was recommended to purchase the Crystal Palace Stove, (also invented by Mr. Anderson) as being the best. I did so, and used it with good satisfaction. When I saw Mr. Anderson's new Stove, I was attracted by its neat appearance, and on examining its Oven and interior arrangements, found it possessed many advantages over all I had seen. I purchased, and have one now in use. We consider it superior to any we have ever used. It is all the inventor claims, and we think, all that could be desired in a Cooking Stove.

CAPT. GILBERT PENDLETON.

ROCHESTER, Nov. 21st.

Having one of Mr. Anderson's new Stoves in use, I can fully endorse Capt. Pendleton's statement.

JOHN H. WHISLER.

Having one of Anderson's new Stoves in use, I can fully endorse the above recommendation.

J. WOODRUFF.

Having one of Mr. Anderson's new Stoves in use, we are fully satisfied with its good qualities in all respects.

JOSEPH IRVIN AND WIFE.

ROCHESTER, Nov. 25th.

Having kept house for a long time, and used a great number of Cook Stoves of different patterns and styles, I consider J. J. Anderson's new Stove, in point of economy in fuel, ready cooking and baking for its size, superior to any we have used, and cheerfully recommend it, believing it will render entire satisfaction.

CHAS. LUKINS.

We have one of Mr. J. J. Anderson's new Stoves, manufactured at the Rochester Foundry, and having given it a fair trial, we find it comes fully up to all that has been claimed for it. It heats very rapidly, takes but little fuel, and is a most excellent baker. Mr. Anderson may congratulate himself on having achieved quite a triumph in the line of Cooking Stoves.

Very respectfully,

Beaver, Nov. 23d, 1867. J. S. BRACKEN.

Agents Wanted for

The Official History of the War,

ITS CAUSES, CHARACTER, CONDUCT AND RESULTS.

By HON. ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS.

A Book for all Sections and all Parties.

THIS GREAT WORK PRESENTS THE ONLY complete and impartial analyses of the Causes of the War yet published, and gives those interior lights and shadows of the great conflict only known to those high officers who watched the flood-tide of revolution from its fountain springs, and which were so accessible to Mr. Stephens from his position as second officer of the Confederacy.

To a public that has been surfeited with apparently similar productions, we promise a change of fare, both agreeable and salutary, and an intellectual treat of the highest order. The Great American War has AT LAST found a historian worthy of its importance, and at whose hands it will receive that moderate, candid, and impartial treatment which truth and justice so urgently demand.

The intense desire everywhere manifested to obtain this work, its Official character and ready sale, combined with an increased commission make it the best subscription book ever published.

One Agent in Easton, Pa., reports 72 subscribers in three days.

One in Boston, Mass. 103 subscribers in four days.

One in Memphis, Tenn. 106 subscribers in five days.
